Storytelling Showcase

This year's Christian Storytelling Festival will once again include a Storytelling Showcase on Friday, March 25, at 6:30 P.M. at Providence Academy in Johnson City, TN. Local storytellers will inspire and entertain at the Storytelling Showcase. The theme of this year's Showcase is "Stories of Hope and Inspiration." There will be nine local storytellers in this year's event. Two of the storytellers are elementary age students and seven are adults. Names and stories are listed below:

Students

Daniel Dotson - "One Time, Two Times"

Nolan Harvel - "A Prayer at Valley Forge"

Adults

Connie Claypool - "The Salt of the Earth"

Peggy Griffin - "George Washington Carver, the Baby Redeemed for a Horse"

Gayleen Kelley - "It is Well with My Soul"

Mike McKinney - "Howard and Alice"

Linda Poland - "A Story Within a Story"

Madge Rohrer - "Patty's Bible"

Charlene Thomas - "I Have a Hero"

In addition, we are excited to announce that the Adult Storytelling Champion from our first Showcase, Connie Gill, will be Master of Ceremonies for the evening and will once again share her winning story, “Charlie Deleo, Keeper of the Flame.”

Tickets are available on-line at www.christianstorytellingfestival.com, or at the door on Friday evening, March 25, at Providence Academy. For ticket prices, directions, or other information regarding our Storytelling Showcase see our website.

Our Featured Storyteller for 2011

Stephen McDowell, our featured storyteller for the 2011 Christian Storytelling Festival, is co-founder of the Providence Foundation (www.providencefoundation.org), a nonprofit Christian educational organization whose mission is to spread liberty, justice, and prosperity among the nations by educating individuals in a Biblical worldview. He also serves as President of the foundation’s Biblical Worldview University. After obtaining a B.S. Degree in Physics at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill and a M.S. Degree in Geology at the University of Memphis, Stephen was ordained for the ministry in 1978. He worked in the pastorate until 1984 when he assisted in establishing the Providence Foundation. In 25+ years of full time work with the Foundation, Stephen has traveled throughout the US and to 30 nations on 6 continents training people from 100 countries to apply Biblical truth in all spheres of life. He has consulted with numerous government officials, assisted in writing political documents and starting political parties, aided in starting Christian schools, and helped establish classes on godly reformation in numerous churches. He has authored and co-authored over 20 books, videos, and training courses including America’s Providential History, In Search of Democracy, Liberating the Nations, In God We Trust Tour Guide, The Story of America’s Liberty, and Building Godly Nations. His books and writings have been translated into French, Spanish, German, Portuguese, Russian, Bulgarian, Czech, and Chinese and have been distributed to hundreds of thousands of people. Stephen has been an adjunct professor at Regent University and serves on the board of numerous organizations and ministries. He has written scores of articles for various publications, appeared on numerous TV and radio programs, and spoken to many different religious, educational, civic, and political organizations. Stephen teaches people to apply biblical truths in all spheres of life. Drawing examples from history, Stephen tells stories that teach liberty, justice, and prosperity. He and his wife Beth live in Charlottesville, Virginia, and have four children.

Free Home School Assemblies

Featured Storyteller Stephen McDowell will be sharing stories about George Washington, The Apostle of Liberty, at the home school assemblies. Allan Walters, Vice President of Marketing at Platinum Level Festival Co-Sponsor Saratoga Technologies, Inc., said, “We believe that there is great interest amongst the community at large in learning more about George Washington, a great role model and heralded American hero.”

Both home school assemblies will be held on Friday, March 25. The first assembly will be 10:00 – 11:30 A.M. at First Christian Church in Johnson City. For more information, see our website (www.christianstorytellingfestival.com).

The second Home School assembly will be 1:30 – 3:00 P.M. at Abingdon Bible Church in Abingdon, VA. The assembly in Abingdon is sponsored by Cornerstone Christian Academy (CCA). CCA will open in the fall of 2011. CCA offers a Christ-centered classical education for grades K-9. You can learn more about CCA by going to their website (www.cornerstoneabingdon.org), or you can pick up additional information at the assembly. Jerry Williams, Providence Academy Administrator, shared, “This is a great opportunity for those living in the Abingdon area to participate in the Christian Storytelling Festival while also getting a chance to learn more about the exciting school that will be opening in the Abingdon area this fall.”

Stephen McDowell at Church

Williams recently announced that two more events have been added to the 2011 Christian Storytelling Festival (CSF) schedule of events: “We are excited that Stephen McDowell, President of the Providence Foundation, will be at two local churches as part of the Christian Storytelling Festival 2011.”

Dr. Reggie Weems, Senior Pastor at Heritage Baptist Church in Johnson City, TN, shared, “One of our founding father traditions was an annual Fourth of July sermon that reviewed and emphasized the principles that our nation was built upon and the mighty works of the hand of God in the battle for freedom. Fourth of July sermons of this type were heard from pulpits all over our land in the early years of our country.” As part of the Christian Storytelling Festival, Stephen McDowell will be sharing a Fourth of July Sermon on Sunday, March 27, at Heritage Baptist Church in Johnson City, TN, at 9:30 A.M.

Stephen McDowell will also share a Fourth of July sermon Sunday at 6:00 P.M. at First Baptist Jonesborough. Senior Pastor Joel Cook said, “We are excited to have Stephen McDowell joining us at First Baptist Jonesborough. His stories will help us bring a Biblical worldview back to history.”
